LRP's National Institute Announces NCAA Division One Hall of Fame Athlete as General Session Speaker

Roger Crawford will share a game plan to build a winning mindset during the 2023 event for special education attorneys and educators.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. – October 5, 2022 – LRP's National Institute on Legal Issues of Educating Individuals with Disabilities®, the leading source for compliance strategies, best practices and case updates impacting special education programs, announced today best-selling author and award-winning speaker, Roger Crawford, as a General Session speaker for the 2023 event taking place April 16 - 19 at the Ernest N. Morial Convention Center in New Orleans.

Crawford, an NCAA Division One Hall of Fame Athlete, has spent a lifetime motivating, inspiring, and elevating the performance of leaders. As someone who overcame physical adversity, he consistently works to help people boost their own levels of success by driving them to excel both as individuals and as part of a team. In his General Session Rebound, Reset and Reach Higher, he will share a game plan for special education attorneys and educators to build a winning mindset, turn change into opportunity, and boost resilience.

"Institute attendees are going to meet the unstoppable Roger Crawford who exemplifies that a person's mindset is truly an indicator of success," said Julie J. Kline, Esq., Vice President, LRP Media Group and Conference Chair. "His message will hit home both personally and professionally for special educators. We are honored to have him as our keynote speaker in 2023."

LRP's National Institute will bring together renowned experts in special education law and administration to share their insights and offer opportunities for attendees to discuss real-world issues while exploring compliance and implementation solutions with colleagues. Along with Crawford's General Session, the 2023 event will include two additional captivating General Sessions from attorneys Geneva Jones with Geneva Jones & Associates, PLLC, and Karen Haase from KSB School Law, PC, LLO.
