Two-Time Golden Globe Winning Actor Henry Winkler to Keynote LRP's National Institute on Legal Issues of Educating Individuals with Disabilities

Winkler will share how his personal struggles of growing up with undiagnosed dyslexia turned into a passion for helping children facing similar challenges.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. – October 6, 2021 – LRP's National Institute on Legal Issues of Educating Individuals with Disabilities®, the leading source for compliance strategies, best practices and case updates impacting special education programs, announced today that two-time Golden Globe winning actor Henry Winkler will keynote the 43rd annual conference. Winkler's general session will be a part of the 2022 in-person event taking place April 24 - 27 at the Kentucky International Convention Center, Louisville.

Winkler, well-known for his role as Arthur "Fonzi" Fonzarelli on TV's hit show Happy Days, will present on Monday, April 25, sharing his personal challenges of growing up with undiagnosed dyslexia and how he turned his educational struggles into a passion for helping children facing similar challenges. He has continuously worked to raise awareness of the adversity that many students face and has supported numerous foundations including the Special Olympics and United Friends of the Children. After his presentation, Winkler will also host a Meet & Greet in the Institute Expo Hall.

"LRP's National Institute team is elated to have Henry Winkler as a keynote speaker at the upcoming in-person event," said Julie J. Kline, Esq., Vice President, LRP Media Group and Conference Chair. "We are looking forward to hearing him speak on his personal experiences with dyslexia and education, as well as his insights from the work he does with children with disabilities."

LRP's National Institute brings together renowned experts in special education law and administration to share their insights and offer opportunities for attendees to discuss real-world issues while exploring compliance and implementation solutions with colleagues. Additional program details for the 2022 conference will be released throughout the month of October.
